FIFTY-SECOND YEAR No. 40.

CEDARVILLE, OHIO, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1929

PRICE, $1.50 A YEAR

PROPOSED TAX AMENDMENT IS BEFORE PEOPLE

The campaign is opened and promises to one of unusual interest as to amending the constitution favoring a form of classification of property for taxes.

Prominent men in the state are taking sides on the question in an endeavor to win the public one way or the other. In the past the farm element and organizations have been strongly opposed to classification but this year Farm Bureau leaders as well as Grange leaders have endorsed the proposed plan.

Those who are defending the present or uniform plan are John J. Chester, originator of the "Cornstarch Club" in the legislature where he served for ten years, and one of the leading farmers in Ohio. Ex-Governor Donahay is also opposing the classification plan.

The classificationists are conducting a strong campaign through the building and loan associations in behalf of the home owners in the state and speakers are being assigned in every county through an organization to back the proposed plan.

Addressing the all-Ohio tax league in Columbus at a meeting to lay plan for the campaign in support of the proposed limited classification tax amendment, Robert A. Taft, of Cincinnati, declared that so long as the hands of the legislature were tied with the present uniform rule tax provision, it was impossible to work out "a reasonable or scientific system of taxation," for the state. The proposed amendment is to be voted on at the November election.

Taft said the present uniform rule could not be enforced "and would destroy Ohio business if it were enforced." He declared that under it less than one-tenth of the securities were listed for taxation and that official figures for 1924 showed that of $1,000,000 in mortgages recorded that year only $386,000 was listed for taxes. "It is reasonable to assume that mortgages in effect are at least thirty times those returned for taxation," he said.

Gov. Donahay in a speech Saturday opposing the proposed amendment had the following to say: "Pointing to the ever increasing amount of the bonded indebtedness in Ohio and declaring that the grand tax duplicate cannot be increased, Donahay declared that after enactment of the Smith 1 per cent tax rate limited law, the tax rate went down and appropriations went up so that 'today, we are back to where we started, with excessive tax rates and our property on the tax duplicate at approximately full value.'"

"No property, taxed according to value, shall be so taxed in excess of 1 1/2 per cent of its true value in money for all state and local purposes, but laws may be passed authorizing additional taxes, to be levied outside of such limitation, either when approved by at least a majority of the electors of the taxing district voting on such proposition, or when provided for by the charter of a municipal corporation. Land and improvements thereon shall be taxed by uniform rule according to value."

"And also ask this further question: Has any country or any state ever successfully legislated morals and honesty into the minds and hearts of its people?"

The former governor paid his respects to the officials of the Grange and agents and officers of organizations that had led their people to "indorse the proposal without advising them of the actual facts."

"It is high time," he asserted, "that the farmers of Ohio miss their moral influence and proceed to clean house. I believe this is the most brazen attempt which has ever been made in the state of Ohio by bond sharks and tax dodgers to secure a strangle-hold on the greatest state in the Union."

"I firmly believe that the proponents of this class tax amendment have two purposes in view. One purpose is to guarantee the tax dodgers of Ohio a very low tax rate if they are caught cheating, and the other is to let the bond sharks get the people by the throat.

"Either purpose is sufficient to cause me to vote against the amendment."

Chester's statement in part is as follows:

"Higher taxes on real estate would result from the provision of the proposed amendment giving the legislature power to either exempt or classify personal property."

"With personal property taxed at a much lower rate than at present, there would be no way to raise the necessary revenues except by a higher tax on real estate."

"The proposed amendment purports to limit taxation to 15 mills, but at the same time clearly provides that all levies outside the 15 mills shall stand," Chester pointed out.

"It also provides that all additional levies voted by the people outside the 15 mills shall be on real estate only, and that if the legislature, by exemption or classification should reduce the taxes on personal property, to that extent the amount must be added to real estate only outside the 15 mills."

"This 'All-Ohio Land Tax League' (for that should be its name) is not satisfied with wrecking farm organizations and political parties," said Chester, "but is expecting to unload a thousand million dollar public debt on the land and the improvements thereon."

"The state auditor's report shows the value of all realty in 1926 was $9,160,000,000 and the value of all personal property returned for taxation was $4,199,000,000."

"Therefore, by surrendering the right to tax this personal property, which amounts to about one-half that of real estate, we would add about one-half to the tax burden of real estate."

"If we do not want this property relieved of its just share of the tax burden, why give the legislature power to do it, for this thing is mandatory and says in substance that any education, either by exemption or classification at a lower rate shall be added to real estate outside the 15 mills."

Memorial Service For Late D. Q. Morrow

Gov. Myers Y. Cooper on Sunday delivered the principal address at memorial services in Highland County in honor of the late D. Q. Morrow, near Hillsboro, where Morrow, as a youth taught his first school. The Governor reviewed the career of Morrow, telling how, after becoming a lawyer, he had entered politics and for 40 years was one of the best-known Republican leaders of that county and a power throughout the state. He also spoke of Morrow's service to the nation, including his mission to Germany to which he was appointed by the late President Harding to adjust the differences between the two countries after the war. At the time of his death Morrow was a Presidential elector.

Mr. Morrow was for many years a member of the O. S. & S. O. Home in Xenia.

Auto Ditched When Forced From Road

An automobile driven by Mr. and Mrs. Goldberg of Columbus was forced off the road this side of Wilberforce last Saturday evening about 7:30 according to reports. A passing machine cut in front of the Columbus car rather than head in on an oncoming automobile.

Mrs. Goldberg suffered a fracture of the collar bone and two broken ribs with bruises. The husband was only slightly bruised. They were taken to the McCallan hospital by Dallas Marshall and Roy Smith who happened along. The Goldberg car was almost a total wreck.

MELODY MASTER'S TUNES BRIGHTEN FILM MUSICAL

Irving Berlin's irresistible music is a feature of the all-talking, all-singing, all-dancing, all-laughing moving picture musical comedy, starring the Marx Brothers, in "The Cocoanuts," which will show at the Regent Theatre for one week, starting Saturday, Sept. 14. The famous composer wrote the score for the stage presentation of "The Cocoanuts" a Broadway hit of two seasons ago. He wrote a beautiful theme song "When My Dreams Come True" especially for the moving picture.

Oscar Shaw and Mary Eaton, two brilliant Broadway artists, famous for their many appearances in Zigfield's Follies, carry the romantic leads in the picture and sing the Berlin song. The Marx Brothers, inimitable comedy men, keep the laughs rippling throughout the picture.

In Ohio are more than 3,000 permanent "bench marks" or points of which the exact elevation above sea level is on record. They are of value in engineering work connected with many types of construction.

NEWS LETTER FROM STATE DEPARTMENTS

COLUMBUS, O. — A method of financing the removal of the historic "little red school houses" in favor of the modern consolidated and centralized schools without additional burdening expense to the rural school districts as the purpose of a conference called by Gov. Myers Y. Cooper, to meet in Columbus soon.

Leading Ohio educators and representative citizens of rural counties will be present at the conference, the governor said.

Despite the elimination of an average of one "little red school house" per day for the last 12 years, there still remain about 4,700 of these historic structures in the state, according to a report yesterday to the governor from John L. Clifton, state director of education.

Four counties have completely eliminated the one-room school houses, the governor was told. These are Cuyahoga, Medina, Champaign and Crawford. While there are several counties that have from 5 to 20 antiquated one-room school buildings, the majority have from 50 to 100.

Transportation, plus the impression of many rural communities that centralized schools will increase the cost of education, are the chief problems of the rural schools, Gov. Cooper believes. It is the governor's aim to standardize transportation from home to school at economical cost, removing one of the chief handicaps from the centralized school.

"Rural education is invaluable to the state and every effort should be made to improve it. In the one-room schools it is impossible for pupils to receive the training that would be theirs in the centralized school. Ohio must eliminate a large number of these 4,700 one-room schools in favor of the consolidated schools, recognized by the leading educators as the best means of rural education," the governor said.

The present program of the department of education calls for the formation of large school districts, with a tax valuation of $3,000,000 or more in order to make them self sustaining.

About 700 districts in Ohio have a tax valuation ranging from $400,000 to $1,500,000. These school districts are known as state aid districts, for the assistance of which the last legislature appropriated $4,000,000 for this school year, and a like amount for the following.

Two million dollars of this has been set aside as a rehabilitation fund, to be spent during the two year period for new buildings, repairs and new equipment in these state aid districts. In 1914 there were 9,489 one-room schools, or twice the present number, and about fifty consolidated schools. This year there are about 800 consolidated and centralized schools. Since last school year about 500 of the one-room schools have been eliminated. This fall, citizens in various localities will be asked to vote on more than 200 building proposals which if approved will reduce the number of one-room schools by approximately 1,000 the governor said.

The little "red brick" school houses, when discarded are sold or torn down and the materials used in the construction of new buildings to replace them.

Deacon were appointed commissioners to appraise the property if the real estate cannot be divided in order that co-tenants may receive their proportions of the estate in severalty.

Farm returns in 1928 were larger than in 1927 and were the best for any year since the post-war agricultural depression, according to the Federal Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

HIXON FARM SOLD

The R. L. Hixon farm on the Jackson road north of Clifton was sold several days ago at public sale on order of the Virginia Land Bank. It comprised about 80 acres and brought about $6,000. The farm was probably the best advertised that was ever offered in the state. Besides all forms of bill board and poster advertising, prizes were given away and a radio entertainer was billed to attract the crowd. In addition a musical organ on an automobile was used to travel this section displaying bills and giving a form of music to interest the public. It is said the farm did not bring enough to clear the debt.

NO OPPOSITION FOR COUNTY BOARD EDUCATION

Messrs. W. B. Bryson, J. E. Hastings and A. L. Fisher will have no opposition as members of the County Board of Education. The county schools operating under the direction of the County Board and County Superintendent Aultman have made remarkable progress the past few years, all of which has been recognized by the school patrons. Moreover the county board has operated on a cost far below what is being paid in some adjoining counties.

COLLEGE HAS LARGE FRESHMAN CLASS THIS YEAR

Cedarville College opened its thirty-sixth year Wednesday when admissions was made by J. L. Clifton, state director of education, who spoke on the subject, "Know Thyself or What Education Is."

The speaker in his remarks made plain that more than books was necessary and that instructors were but part of the school system making an education possible but that the individual student must have thinking ability and use it to the best advantage.

The program opened with a vocal solo by Mrs. Walter Corry, accompanied at the piano by Miss Berkeley. Scripture was read by Rev. Jamieson and prayer offered by Rev. Harriman.

Following the address there was a musical program. A piano trio by Miss Elsie Post, James Anderson and Charles Whittington. A solo by Miss Marian Hostetler and a vocal solo by Mrs. Corry.

There are about fifty new students entered this year, most of whom are from out of town. The Freshman class will be near a record breaker according to present indications.

Aultman Will Head Highway Group

Prof. H. C. Aultman will likely assume leadership of The Bullskin-Kenia Highway Association, which has been formed in an effort to obtain a state and national highway from Xenia through Clermont county to the Ohio river. There is much early history connected with this road, part of which has not been in use for years. Petitions will be presented to Gov. Cooper and the State Highway Department for the improvement.

FALL FESTIVAL FOR RIKE-KUMLER CO.

An event that is looked forward to annually by many residents of Cedarville takes place in Dayton starting Thursday, September 12th. This event is Rike-Kumler's Fall Festival, well known for the values it annually presents. Instituted just after the World War, the Fall Festival has increased in importance until now, it is probably the outstanding retail event in the Miami Valley. The Fall Festival is a sale extraordinary; all merchandise consists of fresh new stocks; the quality is in keeping with Rike-Kumler's high standards; every single item in the Fall Festival is offered at a special price that means decided savings.

This year Rike-Kumler's has taken a new step to insure values that are outstanding. A special committee has been appointed to recheck the quality and price of all Festival items to insure all customers a special value that was outstanding.

Interest in the Fall Festival has always centered around the opening week. It is predicted that this year will find interest remaining keen throughout the entire period of the Fall Festival, from September 12th through September 28th. The reason being that new items will appear as the sale progresses, offering a variety of Fall Festival values on the successive days of the sale.

Buyers having returned from Eastern markets report that never before have they been able to secure such attractive lines in new and timely merchandise at such substantial reductions. All things point to this year's Fall Festival as the greatest Festival of all.

As an introductory feature of the Fall Festival, The Rike-Kumler Company has issued a series of editorials dedicating Rike-Kumler's as "Missionaries of Beauty for the Miami Valley." It is felt by the officials of the company that a large department store has a splendid opportunity as a missionary of beauty to bring before the great buying public objects of beauty and art. To this end, a unique series of window displays was arranged during the week of September 3rd to 7th. Objects of beauty and utility were shown in the making. In many instances artists and artisans were actually at work in the windows. And this theme of missionaries of beauty will be carried out in the Fall Festival. Not only will the merchandise featured represent unusual values, but they will be items that are chosen, whenever possible, because they reflect beauty in craftsmanship, in color, in design.
